BROWN AND HURLEY
Careers

THE HISTORY

The Brown and Hurley story began during World War 2 when two motor mechanics, Alan Brown and Jack Hurley, formed a mateship and shared a dream to start their own business.

At the war's end, armed with their modest discharge payments, the two headed back to northern New South Wales in search of a suitable business. The two soon realised that an existing mechanical business was beyond their monetary limitations so the decision was made to purchase a bicycle repair shop in Kyogle, New South Wales. The bike shop had the added attractions of a petrol bowser that would assist cash flow and an old shed at the rear that could be used for mechanical repairs.

Today Brown and Hurley have branch locations throughout northern New South Wales and Queensland. We are a single purpose company totally committed to the supply of equipment to the road transport industry whilst striving to provide our customers with the highest level of after sales support in the industry.

Brown and Hurley is a third generation family owned Australian business and one of the largest truck dealers in Australia, representing the Kenworth and DAF brands.

We look forward to the future with excitement as we continue to grow with our customers whilst retaining the sound and ethical business practices of our founders.
